Here is a thought from a homily last week: Love can prune our sins like a knife whittles wood from a branch. Love is a lathe that can turn an old fence post into a candle stick.

I was at a wedding last weekend in Halstad, MN. I am grateful to Fr. Bob Keiffer for his ministry to you. For Sunday Mass I concelebrated in my home parish—which is an unusual privilege. My mother was in the assembly. She prayed as I remembered praying—intensely and deliberately.

The wedding was a beautiful experience. I cried during the procession. Why? I have been asking myself this question. I think it had something to do with the beauty of family life. At the rehearsal, the father of the bride shared with me how proud he is of all of his children. It wasn't a generic statement. He talked about each of his four children and the uniqueness that each of them brings to the family, to their places of work and to the world.

It was not that their lives are blessed in any singular way. In fact, these families are broken just like yours and mine. In these families there are divorces. There have been deaths. There have been struggles and triumphs. All the while, they have held on to their faith and leaned in on God's mercy. Even from brokenness, people can rise and shine with the beauty of the Children of God!

I think I cried during the procession because the Church was filled with such hope and faith and especially joy. No matter how difficult the past has been, two young people approached God's altar and pledged their love and faithfulness forever. A little more than three hundred people witnessed their consent; three hundred people went to work on Monday morning with a beautiful story to tell of a brave young couple and their wedding.

Love one another well. No matter what has happened, rise from the ashes and love again. Be joyful again. Be hopeful again. Be faithful again.

A BIG BARNYARD THANK YOU!!

Thank you to all the parents and family that did the extra to get your children to VBS. We had a great week. Special thanks to all that helped in so many different ways: Abby Nagel, Kendra Ovsak, Alexis Aho, Rachel LaSart, Bailey Aho, Matt Jutz, Seth Oeslager, McKenna Splonskowski, Chelsy Hofer, Ellie Morgan, Kyliegh VanDenEykel, Sarah LaSart, Susan Pawlitschek, Tracy La Sart, Isaac LaSart, Sierra Brolin, Maddie Ketter, Russ Karasch, MaryAnn Karasch, Dave Dorn, Joe Stegmaier, and a special thanks to Father David for the Mass on Friday. Without our youth involved as much as they are, we would not be able to hold VBS. The relationships you form with the younger children will only strengthen the Church. You are very special and chosen servants of God

Confirmation and First Eucharist pictures are here. Pick yours up in the church vestibule at the top of the stairs.
