A paraphrase from last week's homily: Giving from our talents is much like the gifts of the wealthy Pharisees in the Gospel. Giving from their surplus didn't really cost the Pharisees much; giving from our talents probably doesn't cost us much, either. Like the needy widow dropping her two small coins into the basket, giving from our weaknesses costs us much more and is much more valuable in the eyes of God.

Here are some more thoughts from Protecting Your Family Online: A Parent's How-To Guide.

Creating Accountable Homes

Pornography is almost unavoidable. It only takes a typo while doing homework for a kid to stumble across all sorts of inappropriate content. As a parent, there are many steps you can take to keep your kids safe, such as filters to block bad content. But filters don't always work well, or kids can find ways around them. And keeping computers in public places doesn't help when parents are outside doing chores or otherwise occupied, and it doesn't stop a child from sneaking downstairs after everyone else is asleep.

Training a child to use the Internet is not simply about placing good filtering software on our home computers. According to popular Christian author and speaker Doug Wilson, "Building a fence does not prevent someone from wanting to be on the other side of it. In fact, building a fence often has the effect of increasing someone's desire to be on the other side of it (Romans 3:20; 5:20). It is the sweetness of forbidden fruit."

For parents, the answer is to create a new culture in the home—a culture of accountability. Simply put, it means that you can—and should—give an account of your actions (including the websites you visit and the search terms you use) to someone else. Kids should be accountable to their parents. Husbands should be accountable to their wives and vice versa. (Even better, a man should also be accountable to another male friend or mentor.)

Accountability isn't only a good idea for those who are struggling with a particular sin. Accountability is something we should foster in our children early in life—not just as a way to defeat bad habits but as a way to encourage good ones. This is especially true in how we train our kids to use the Internet.

That's why many parents use Covenant Eyes Internet Accountability software to train their kids to use the Internet wisely.

The fall marks the beginning of spending time with family and friends; watching football, celebrating Thanksgiving, the Holidays, and the New Year. But for patients in need of blood, those moments can be filled with uncertainty as they fight illnesses or injury or heal from surgery. One way to give thanks for your health is to donate blood. Sacred Heart is sponsoring a BLOOD DRIVE on November 30, 2015, from 11:30AM until 6:00PM. Patients need blood and it can only come from volunteers like you. Call Cheryl to set up an appointment: 218-334-4221 or 218-847-4599; or you may go online at www.UnitedBloodServices.org to make an appointment.

On Thanksgiving Day, Sacred Heart is sponsoring a Community Dinner free of charge at the Frazee Event Center from 11:30-1:30. St. Francis of Assisi Fund is providing the food. All are welcome.

The Frazee High School Band is having a pancake breakfast Nov 22 at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Frazee, 8-12 pm. There will be a FREE WILL offering.

The weekend of November 28/29 will be the Special Collection for the St. Mary's Mission Appeal. In advance of the Appeal, on the weekend of November 21/22, we will be showing a DVD about St. Mary's Mission in the Hall of Saints 15 minutes before and again after each of the weekend Masses.
