Here is a thought from last week's homily: It is my ardent desire that a church be erected here so that in it I can show and bestow my love, compassion, help and protection to all who inhabit this land and to others who love me.

My niece Caley graduated from nursing school on December 15. She is a Texan. She says "Y'all" and drives a truck. When she was younger than a teen, she talked about going to college in North Dakota. Her daddy is proud to be a North Dakotan, and Caley seemed excited about associating herself with those roots. As college drew close, the thought of winter in North Dakota was like a blizzard on her dreams. She woke up one day and said, "No way am I going to survive a winter in the North." She had survived 18 years of Christmas in North Dakota. She decided that survival mode was not the way she wanted to spend her college years. She graduated from North Central Texas College.

Have you ever come to a realization that a dream should remain forever but a dream? My first job was in the kitchen of a nursing home. That experience formed my dreams for about 10 years. I wanted with all my heart to be a nursing home administrator. I studied it in college. I passed the national exam. And then I let go of the whole thing. A dream that is only but a dream.

St. Joseph was a dreamer. His dreams were not merely his subconscious playing with the wiring in his brain to create images in his sleep. His dreams were a revelation of God's will. At the news of Mary's pregnancy, Joseph planned to divorce her quietly. He had a plan firmly in hand...until he slept on it.

What openness to God on Joseph's part! What willingness to start again at zero and build his life according to God's latest design!
